1. All coastal motor sailboats plying along the Istrian and Dalmatian coasts now are required to carry one Yugoslav naval cadet as part of the crew. These cadets are from the Naval Academy of Pirano and, according to the authorities, it is part of their training program.
2. There has been considerable resentment against shipping these cadets on the part of the captains of the vessels. They claim that their real purpose aboard is to spy on the crews and, because of their inexperience, they are of no assistance in handling the boats.
